Linda Darling introduced Auditors Kori Sarrett and Glen Kearns from Accurity, LLC who had come to share the audit report to the Board.

Glen Kearns reported that the District has an unmodified (clean) opinion and no reason to modify the opinion. There was one minor "non-compliance" which was a carryover around public procurement. He shared that staff did a good job in fixing issues from previous years. The District made great strides in financial position this year with the General Fund balance increasing significantly. Glen explained that there are new accounting standards coming into play this fiscal year. He added that the effects of the PERS liabilities being added to the district's net position which will result in a large negative number on our financials for next audit year.

Kori Sarrett pointed out that the negative impact could affect the District's ability to borrow monies if needed. Kori shared that the federal compliance audit tested the District's Nutritional program. There were no "non-compliance" issues with the nutritional program. Food service staff did a great job of documenting the program and following the guidelines and laws. No issues with the National Food Service Program.

Russ McUne asked what percentage the auditors would recommend for an ending fund balance.

Glen Kearns pointed out that it varies for each entity. The ideal would be six months of operating costs, but that can be challenging. Three months of operating costs should be the minimum, but that can also be challenging with changes in Federal and State mandates that affect District spending.
